Dear Ms. Camacho-Pagan:

On behalf of Attorney General W. Cary Edwards, I am writing to invite members of your organization to consider employment opportunities as a deputy attorney general at the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice. Let me briefly tell you about the Division.

In 1970, the Legislature enacted the Criminal Justice Act, which established the Attorney General as chief law enforcement officer in the State and created the Division of Criminal Justice within his office. The Division exercises the statewide prosecutorial authority of the Attorney General as well as serving a coordinative function designed to effect a uniform, cooperative enforcement of the criminal laws in New Jersey. Presently, the Division is divided into an Investigations Bureau, which is responsible for white collar criminal investigations and prosecutions, an Operations Bureau, which is responsible for litigation and coordinating activities of the criminal justice system on a statewide basis, an Organized Crime Bureau, an Environmental Task Force and a Narcotics Task Force. Within these bureaus are various sections and units dealing with such diverse criminal justice responsibilities as medicaid fraud, economic crime, antitrust and corruption investigations, to highlight but a few, as well as appellate and trial litigation.

Of course, a complete description of the Division and the many opportunities and advantages it offers to a highly motivated attorney cannot be effectively conveyed in a letter.

For this reason, we would welcome the opportunity to address your group about the various opportunities available and benefits of working for the Division of Criminal Justice. Please advise me or Deputy Attorney General Anne C. Paskow, Chief of the Appellate Section, Division of Criminal Justice, of any "Career Days" or similar functions sponsored by your organization in which we might participate. Suffice it to say that employment at the Division of Criminal Justice offers a challenging and rewarding experience for any attorney interested in resolution of significant legal problems relating to the criminal justice system.

In order to maintain the high level of legal excellence manifested by the Division since its creation 15 years ago, we are interested in attracting as deputy attorneys general individuals with top academic credentials, strong writing skills, and overall outstanding legal abilities. We feel we have much to offer persons who possess such qualities, and we invite those members of your organization to explore employment opportunities with this office by forwarding a resume to my attention, or to the attention of Deputy Attorney General Paskow. Please feel free to contact Deputy Attorney General Paskow should you have any questions or desire further information about employment opportunities at the Division.

Very truly yours,

Donald R. Belsole
First Assistant Attorney General
Director
